

Bereavement Counseling

... for women, for men, for parents, for children - an essential part of what East End Hospice does in caring for the terminally ill, their families and loved ones.

"Until Hospice came on to my friend's case (last week of his life), I had thought Hospice was a place terminal people went to die. Instead I now know it's a complete support organization - before, during and after."

contact and support. I only hope that I will be able to impart this LOVE shown to me to someone else who may lose a person who meant so much in their life, as my sister did to me"
- Bridgehampton

"I appreciate, very much, the periodic notes and invites to participate in your ongoing programs and hope they continue. I am so grateful. I believe I am coping fairly well and am well into 'letting go'. Also beginning to re-enter the social world, thanks in great part to your programs and support. I love you all."
- Hampton Bays

"Thank you to all the Hospice people who were here before my sister passed away; and to all those who have been so understanding of my grief. Hospice has been there caring and consoling me. This oh so difficult a process that everyone who loses a loved one goes through, has been eased by their constant Compassionate care they so desperately need...

"The bereavement group was a beautiful experience at a very trying time in my life. With my world turned upside down, the weekly meetings gave me some stability and support." – Montauk

"Involvement in the bereavement group helped me to feel calmer and more in control of my feelings, but not afraid to show them when I'm sad." – Manorville

"Hospice services were excellent. They went above and beyond helping me to cope. It was nice to have someone who cared about me as well as my wife. Thank you for all your wonderful help." – Quogue

"Participation in the bereavement group made a difference in the way I coped with my loss because it allowed me to express my thoughts and feelings, to sort through the confusion, to ask important questions, to be angry, happy, sad, to be accepting." – East Moriches

"We all showed each other how human we are, and being in the group made me realize I wasn't alone." – Sag Harbor

"We became friends and learned to love and accept each other through our fears and our losses." – Remsenburg
